Commercial tendencies are still in the direction of improvement, although progress is hampered by some initation of prices for the raw materials of textile and footwear industries. Confidence expands as the crops are secured, each day putting a large quantity of grain beyend danger and making sensational rumors of loss less effective.

Weather conditions have been favorable for retail distribution, reduced stocks in the hands of dealers being reflected in large wholesale and jobbing demands. Evidences of faith in the future are increasing, more disposition being shown to provide for requirements beyond immediate consumption.

The industrial situation is in striking contrast to conditions prevailing a year ago, when there was much bileness, both on account of quiet trade and labor contracteries.

Complete returns now available for the leading departments indicate that the first half of 1956 mode a better comparison with the corresponding six months of last year than even the most sanguine estimates, which naturally increase optimism regarding business during the second half. Foreign commerce at this port for the last week was almost identical with the results in 184.
